Matteo Tonezzer won the "Young Scientist Award 2011" by the European Materials Research Society. He worked in research centers in France (ESRF), Brazil (UFMG), Vietnam (HUST), Italy (INFM, CNR), South Korea (INHA University) and USA (GeorgiaTech). He is currently working for IMEM-CNR. His main area of interest concerns sensing properties of nanostructured materials and machine learning to make them smart.