

Valentina Bertana received her BSc and MSc Degree in Biomedical Engineering at Politecnico di Torino in 2013 and 2015 respectively. In February 2020 she received her PhD degree at Politecnico di Torino in Electrical, Electronic and Communication Engineering. She is a PostDoc (Academic Discipline FIS/03 – Physics of Matter) at the Department of Applied Science and Technology (DISAT) of Politecnico di Torino. Her research activities are mainly focused on additive manufacturing, smart materials, printable electronics and microfluidics.