

Since 2001 he has been working in the Scientific Technical Department of Federchimica, where he mainly deals with advocacy and with support to companies in the area of sustainable development.- He is currently Head of the Sustainability, Circular Economy and Responsible Care Programme Area. Among the main skills developed: performance indicators, statistical analysis and sustainability reporting in particular relating to the chemical sector.