

Luca Cerri is a PhD student in Life Sciences at the University of Siena. Luca started his PhD in November 2020. He currently works in the Pharmaceutical Technology Laboratory at the Department of Pharmacy, University of Pisa. He graduated in 2019 in Pharmaceutical Chemistry and Technology at the University of Pisa. His background brings together the development of nanosystems, nutraceuticals, cell cultures and animal models.