

Alessandro Cometta

Master degree in Biology at the University of Milan, senior application and software specialist in Zeiss, working in the 3D imaging for the reserch market segment from more than 10 years and daily involved on the field for the demonstration and training of the 3D systems. He is used to work aside the researchers in their specific applications.