

Stefano Manfredini is professor of pharmaceutical chemistry and toxicology, Coordinator of the Degree in Pharmacy, Director of the Master Course in Cosmetic Science and Technology at the University of Ferrara, Italy. He is the co-founder, with Silvia Vertuani, of the university accredited spin-off company, Ambrosialab. Has a special interest in degenerative processes associated with UV induced oxidative stress. He is particularly dedicated to natural products and their applications in formulation for pharmaceutical, nutritional and cosmetic products. He has solid experience in the production of natural and synthetic molecules by extraction, synthesis and biotechnology approaches. He was deputy rector to technology transfer from University to companies and holds a variety of administrative and teaching posts at the University of Ferrara.