

Alessandro Molle is research director at the CNR-IMM. He graduated in Physics and had PhD degree in Materials Science at the University of Genoa. Besides international and national projects, on 2017 he was granted a H2020 ERC-COG2017 “XFab” project (2018- 2023). He was symposium organizer at the E-MRS and MRS Meetings. He was guest editor of special issues in Elsevier journals, and co-editor of a book published by CRC press on 2016. He is focused on the synthesis of emerging 2D materials and their integration in a nanotechnology platforms.