

Luigi Santamaria, after a master degree and a PhD in Physics at University of Napoli and a period as postdoctoral researcher at Institute of Complex System joined the National Institute of Optics as temporary researcher. In 2016 became a permanent researcher at Italian Space Agency where he works on several projects of optical metrology.